

PhD cand. Sadmira MALAJ

Sadmira MALAJ, currently based in Albania where she is continuing her academic career path at University Polis as an Assistant Lecture and Researcher at the Planning and Urban Management department. She finished her Integrated Scientific Master in Urban Planning and Environment Management at University Polis. Currently she is pursuing her PhD in the area of Future Mobility and its Impact on Urban Form. Her research topics interest is on Placemaking, Streetscape, Mobility & Transportation.

For 4-years she was engaged at German University of Technology in Oman as Assistant Lecture and Researcher. During these years she was co-author and contributing in different publications on architecture and urban planning field about topic such as: Green City & Urban Farming during COVID19, Housing, Mobility & Transportation, Place-making & Co-designing, etc. Furthermore, Sadmira was entitled as a researcher and project coordinator on two research projects such as;

- Demand Oriented, Culture Sensitive-Housing in Oman founded by TRC (The Research Council) and GUTech (German University of Technology)
- Where Oman Walks? founded by TRC (The Research Council), Municipality of Muscat, WHO (World Health Organization) and GUTech (German University of Technology). Recently WOW project is aiming expanding internationally where the first stop is Albania, with the new sub-project title 'Where Albania Walks?' .

Interest fields on scientific research: streetscape, placemaking, transport planning, traffic management, mobility etc.