

Professor Željko Bačić, PhD

Curriculum vitae – short

Prof. Željko Bačić graduated at the Faculty of Geodesy, University of Zagreb in 1986, and took his PhD at the Technical University of Graz, Austria in 1997. Since then, he is teaching Satellite Positioning, Sensor integration and Navigation at the Faculty of Geodesy in Zagreb and Faculty of Civil Engineering, Architecture and Geodesy in Split.

In period 1999.-2012. he was Director General of Croatian State Geodetic Administration during which time new legislation was adopted, cadastre service reorganized, and comprehensive reform of land administration in Croatia was conducted. Croatian permanent GNSS network – CROPOS and National SDI have been established.

He was active member of EuroGeographics, was member of Management board 2002-2007, and its President 2005-2007, was member of Cambridge Conference Advisory Board 2003-2011, and chairmen of the Management board on regional cooperation in Cadastre in South-East Europe 2007-2012. He is Croatian (academic) delegate in EuroSDR, Croatian representative in Copernicus Committee at EC DG DEFIS and member of Reference group for Space of the Croatian Ministry of Science and Education.

He was Vice Dean for science and international cooperation in period 2015-2017. He is project coordinator or team leader of several Erasmus+ Capacity Building in Higher Education - CBHE and Sector Skills Alliances – SSA projects.